MATES IN 2 MOVES

Participants:

Sven Trommler – 1; Miroslav Svítek – 2; Mario Viola – 3; Givi Mosiashvili – 4, 15; Mario Guido Garcia & Carlos Grassano – 5; Carlos Grassano & Daniel Perrone – 14; Vladislav Bunka – 6; Zoltan Labai – 7; Aleksandr Chaplin – 8; Vitaly Kviatkovskiy – 9, 10; Piotr Novickiy – 11; Boško Milošeski – 12, 13; Anatoly Vasilenko & Mark Basisty - 16; Nikola Stolev – 17; Georgi Hadži-Vaskov – 18, Zoran Gavrilovski – 19, 22; Živko Janevski – 20, 21.

Judge: Hans Gruber (Germany)

The originally appointed judge was unable to complete the award, so Zoran Gavrilovski asked me to replace him. I was glad to accept the invitation. Twenty-two twomovers were presented on anonymous diagrams. I thank Udo Degener who helped with anticipation research. Unfortunately, he was successful in some cases so that the award is rather small.

- Problem 1 (Kb4/Kd4) is small, but nice. Compare with V. V. Djachuk, 1st Prize, Halkidiki Quick Ty. 2004.
- The theme of problem 6 (Ke7/Ke5) has been shown many times, e. g. by A. Albaina, Commendation, Vitoria-Gasteinz 800-JT 1982; A. G. Corrias, 2nd Prize, Luigi Centurini 1922; A. Lund, Arbejder-Skak 1938; W. Krämer, Deutsche Schachblätter 1928.
- Problem 12 (Ka8/Ke4) has some merit, although there are some predecessors (e. g. N. P. Zelepukin, Schakhmatna Misl 1970; A. Volkmann, Rochade 1982; N. I. Nagnibida, 3rd Prize, Milenum Gdanska 1998), because the same two pieces (black queen, black knight) play the thematic moves in each phase. This small added-value is, however, outweighed by some (too) major weaknesses in the construction: The extra variations 1...Qd1, 1...Q:e2 in the try are a pity, because the thematic mates are repeated. The wRd8 is very weak in the solution (only guarding one square in one variation), many pieces are idle in the mates.
- Problem 19 (Kh7/Kc3) is well constructed, but has limited originality, see e. g. F. Pachl & H. Weissauer, The Problemist Supplement 1995; L. Iskra, 1st Prize, Sovjetskiy Voyn 1968; J. Savournin, 3rd Prize, Thèmes 64 1961.

The problems were of very different quality. Ambitious, modern problems were present as well as (too) small ones, some with well-known contents, and even some with severe weaknesses (illegal position, promoted pieces, non-provided king flights in the set-play without compensation ... ). Finally, only three problems made it into the award.

Prize: № 20, Živko Janevski. Four different mates after R:c5 in a lively matrix, with two knights playing the first moves. The flight-giving moves are well integrated, and both refutations reappear in other phases.

Honourable Mention: № 16, Anatoly Vasilenko & Mark Basisty. Good play with unpins on two lines. The author noted some kind of pattern play (partly in obscure tries), but there was no significant overall pattern.

Commendation: № 22, Zoran Gavrilovski. 3 x 2 changed mates with flight-giving first moves. The first move of the try reappears as a mate in the solution. Compare with diagram A (which even shows 4 x 2 changed mates). Elegance and flight-giving keys give some extra value, although the try's refutation is coarse, and the thematic mates reappear after many different black moves.

№ 20, Živko Janevski

MATES IN 3 MOVES

Participants:

Sven Trommler – 1; Leonid Makaronez & Aleksandr Sygurov – 2; Stephan Dietrich – 3, 4; Leonid Makaronez & Leonid Ljubashevsky – 5; Henryk Grudzinski – 6; Zoltan Labai – 7; Zlatko Mihajloski – 8; Vitaly Kviatkovskiy – 9; Arieht Grinblat – 10; Arieht Grinblat, Evgeny Bourd & Aleksandr Feoktistov – 11; Boško Miloševski – 12; Igor Agapov – 13; Nikolay Mironenko – 14; Peter Gvozdják – 15; Vladimir Kozhakin – 16, 17, 18; Živko Janevski – 19, 20.

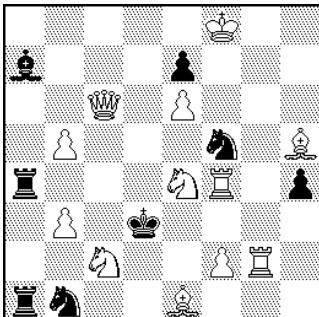

Judge: Zoran Gavrilovski (Macedonia)

The level of the tourney was moderate, even though there were some good threemovers.

I had to exclude № 13 for being anticipated by Ernest Pogosyants, Leninskaya Smena 1988, with the same position, but (curiously!) without a twin stipulation “after the key of a”). Vladimir Kozhakin, who submitted this anticipation claim, also informed that in Segodnja-zavtra 4.XII.2010 he used the same mechanism to create further twins (five in total).

I based my award on evaluation of originality, strategy and construction. It reads as follows:

1st Prize: № 11, Arieht Grinblat & Evgeny Bourd. Excellent cyclic shift of three moves after second move defences in the threat and first move defences in the solution. The mechanism is not new, of course, thus threemover fans will have a déjà vu feeling after seeing the change of strategy from self-pinning in the threat to anti-dual self-blocks in three variations. The use of a white rook for the “technical” variation 1...Se3 is unfortunate. The tries do not add much to the content.

2nd Prize: № 15, Peter Gvozdják. Original doubling of otherwise familiar Le Grand #2 matrix with alternate control of square(s) adjacent to the BK and pinning of a black unit. I regret the author's failure (or intention?) to place one of the threat lines into a separate, third variation, as the double threat is unpleasant. Captures at W2 are unfortunate, but nevertheless allow the scheme to work.

1st Honourable Mention: № 2, Leonid Makaronez & Aleksandr Sygurov. Square vacation by the white rooks and anti-Bristol after 1...Be8/Bg6, emphasised by the try 1.Rc5? e5! (still, 1...e5! also refutes the "cook" try 1.Qb4?). The pinning set up defends against multiple threat after 1...e3 2.Rc:e3 Se4!/Sd3? 3.R5:e4/R3e4,R5e4#) and refutes a non-thematic try (1.Qa1? e3!).

2nd Honourable Mention: № 8, Zlatko Mihajloski. An old fashioned threemover without a particular theme, but with some changed mates and wealth of virtual play. Unfortunately, there are too many plausible tries refuted by 1...Ke6 (including tries by the WB) and a few by 1...Ke5!

3rd Honourable Mention: № 19, Živko Janevski. Excellent key and good play, with differentiation of checks by two white knights on d6 after distant self-blocks in a rather symmetrical matrix. The by-play is refreshing, particularly the variation with exchange of places of the white queen and the white knight.

Commendation: № 7, Zoltan Labai. Black Correction with a changed and transferred continuation (though 1...Rh8 is not very convincing) and pin mates after B2 by BRs. It would have been placed higher if the author found a better position, e.g. Ka2→a7, Ph4→b7, -Pb2, -Pe2.

Judge: Nikola Stolev (Macedonia)

There were 34 problems in this tourney, which I received from the “neutral judge” without authors’ names. I think that the level of the tourney was satisfactory and, accordingly, I determined my judging criteria. Non-honoured and non-commented problems explore familiar problem motifs. Problems mentioned below were not honoured for the following reasons: № 1 (Kb6/Kd5) – familiar problem motifs, realised by double change in the twinning; № 2 (Kd8/Kb5) – varied play undermines the idea of showing BK star; № 9 (Kb2/Kd3) – a good conception, but that has already been seen (for comparison, see B); № 10 (Ka3/Kf4) – in the diagram position wBb8 attacks the bK and has a role in determining the play; № 13 (Ka1/Ke6) – the author shows black moves to the same squares (d3 and e3), but the play is varied; № 14 (Kc8/Kd4) – simple and symmetrical play; № 20 (Kg4/Kd4) – ambitious conception, but in each solution there are white pieces which have no role in the final position; № 26 (Kc8/Kf5) – a good conception, but it would have been better if the author has managed to avoid the repeating moves Bg4 and Ke4.

I thank the tourney director for entrusting me with the judging task. I also thank the grandmaster Živko Janevski who indicated certain anticipations.

3rd Honourable Mention: № 16, Abdelaziz Onkoud. A successful rendering of double Zilahi.

4th Honourable Mention: № 8, Almiro Zarur. A clear presentation of opening of a white line (d5-d2), with attack to the WK and black interferences.

5th Honourable Mention: № 6, Valerio Agostini & Gabriele Brunori. Exchange of white moves in a setting with set play.

6th Honourable Mention

- 1.R:d6 K:c4 2.Rd7 Bc6#

6th Honourable Mention: № 21, Jorge Lois & Jorge Kapros. The attack to the white king ends with self-blocks. The dual avoidance lines are a good addition, as they could not be realised owing to white line interferences.

1st Commendation: № 22, Almiro Zarur. Activation of the Re8-e4 battery line in three different ways.

2nd Commendation: № 18, Abdelaziz Onkoud. Elimination of white pieces allowing black interference and change of functions of Bd5/Rd6 (captured/mating) in Zilahi manner.
